Suffering from Privatization

Cambodia used to be fresh but it become dark. Now there is no light. The private sector owns everything and the prices are too high. How can we survive?

Hospitals, water and roads. Our government gave the power to private companies to control them all. The companies raise the prices higher and higher. Private companies, please allow us to live.

Chorus:
Donors give aid and loans that are tied to conditionalities.
This ties our government at the hands. It is not a destiny that we must accept. Many countries are already suffering.

The poor countries have fallen into the well, into darkness.
We think it will be good but actually it is like a chain around the neck. So we have to stand up for our freedom.
